

The Weeping One

You'll all fall to me one day. I'm willing to be.... patient.

-- The goddess Irra, to Raviaki Silverspark

The plague goddess Irra. A slow moving but vicious force of nature, it is really hard to stop her when she really gets going. Adaptable and relentless, Irra can find the smallest foot hold to build an army with, turning the bodies of her enemies into hosts for her soldiers.

Raviaki's worst enemy.

Backstory

Irra encroached. Irra spread. Irra had a continent in the palm of her hand when a group of pesky adventurers, protected by a certain alchemist's potions, managed to pry her grip from her armies and sealed away her divine powers. However, she found refuge in the seed of disease she planted in that very alchemist, and is now using them to regain her own strength, though for the time being, she is trapped in their mortal body.

Disease

She can spread disease like no one's business.

Necrosis

When pushed, she can rot flesh at a touch, with or without Raviaki's consent. This badly hurts them.

Dream speaking

She speaks to Ravi in their dreams. She's really less of an assist and more of a curse, let's be real.

Strengths

When she gets going, she's nearly unstoppable.

Weaknesses

Currently trapped in the body of a mortal, without a connection to her flock. As a goddess, she's vulnerable. She has not built the infrastructure she needs to be able to escape her host.
