

Blacksmith Festo

---

---

I made a bet a bet a while ago with another blacksmith to see who could make the largest functioning spear. Let's just say he lost good money

-- [Festo boasting his blacksmithing skills]

Self-proclaimed best blacksmith of the crossroads, the only thing Festo loves more than working metal are tournament fights (and his wife)

Backstory

Festo was born in Crossroads and learned blacksmithing from his dad, who had learned from his dad and now Festo teaches blacksmithing to his son. Since his childhood he's loved tournaments and has never stopped being kind of a fan boy for fighters

An anvil fell on his head when he was 53 (he claims it was a plot made by the other blacksmiths since they were jealous of his skills). Miraculously it caused no brain damage as the brain simply squished itself down, most doctors are too scared to touch it since any small change to his skull might cause damage so it just stayed that way. His dream is for a fighter to win using a weapon of his making.

Today he is married and has a son

Abilities

---

Blacksmithing skills

Festo boasts that there's no metal he can't work and no weapon he can't make. To this day it has not proven to be a lie

See through eyes

Somehow he can see perfectly fine despite his eyebrows covering his eyes completely.

Job & Skills

---

Festo is a blacksmith, and a good one at that. He takes his job very seriously and it's hard to bargain with him. However, he often gives free stuff to competitors, much to his much more serious son's dismay.

Location

---

Lives in tortoise village, his house is also his smithy. He rarely goes far from there unless there's a tournament going on.

Gallery

Festo's beautiful wife Aglaea

Festo's son Erichtho

Author's Notes

---

Honestly I was just bored and find a weird pleasure making wiki pages for literally any minor character lol
