

Vallery "Sugar Glass" Henderson

Calling home? Need something to wake you up? Have a sweet tooth craving? Just want to see me? Oh, you're so sweet~ Don't expect flattery to get you a discount though.

-- Sugar Glass

Vallery Henderson is a tall, plus sized woman, with an affinity for a white and purple color scheme. Her hair is brunette naturally, but she usually dyes it; frequently purple, though she has been known to mix it up now and then, often for holidays. She almost always has glossy white highlights dyed into it and prefers to have it tied up or braided. She has a mind for fashion and takes a lot of care in her appearance. This rarely lasts as she is constantly putting out metaphorical (and sometimes literal) fires, trying to keep her business, the "Shatter Sugar Connection Cafe" up and running. Even then, she always seems highly energized, and has a bad habit of cutting people off when they are speaking. She often accessorizes with a purple necklace and a pocket watch.

Table of Contents

- 1. Backstory
- 2. Personality
- 3. Abilities
- 4. Job & Skills
- 5. Location
- 6. Gallery
- 7. Author's Notes

Backstory

Sugar Glass was born Vallery Henderson to a lower-middle class family. Her childhood was messy, in a way that's not uncommon. Stress related to finances often plagued her family. She adapted to it by developing an aggressive optimism. There was a lot of pressure on her. She was the eldest daughter, and had been born with Parahuman abilities: the ability to make barriers. Her father pressed her to improve this naturally gifted supernatural talent, imagining her becoming the next big super hero, and when she was very little she entertained the idea. On her 7th birthday, this changed, when her mother decided to bake a birthday cake from scratch. It was magic to little Vallery: she knew how they were made in a vague sense, but she

Sugar Glass

Aliases/Nickname(s)

Vallery Henderson
Val

Profile Data

Race

Human (Parahuman Type 1)

Pronouns/Gender/Sex

She/Her, Cis Female

Age

24

Weight/Height/Build

[entry/entry/entry]

Hair/Eye/Skin Colour

[entry/entry/entry]

Distinguishing Marks

- Signature 2 tone braid

Abilities

Barrier

She comes from a world where super heroes and villains fight, and superpowers are common. There is a complex classification system, but the most accessible term is 'parahuman'; a term for any super powered individual who always has access to their powers. She is a Type 1 Parahuman (meaning she was born with her powers), and as typical of Type 1 Parahumans, her abilities are simple but can grow in power like one would train a muscle. In this case she can make simple semi-transparent barriers. They can be any shape or size so long as at least one part remains within 5 feet of her. The 'material' they are made out of is indistinguishable from, and has the same properties of glass, even shattering under a heavy impact, but it is not made of actual matter and will dissipate when she stops focusing on it. Larger barriers puts a greater strain on her powers, exhausting her, and more complex objects require a lot of focus for her to create and maintain. Thus in battle she usually keeps this simple, often going with a dome or bubble around her, or a simple pane as a shield. Barriers are affected by gravity, and she did learn that their weight can be a potential crushing hazard.

Job & Skills

She is the owner and operator of the Shatter Sugar Connection Cafe. She does a bit of everything, from maintaining the connection systems that allow competitors to phone home, to meeting with distributors, to running the register, to cleaning the tables, and more. Most importantly, she has customized every recipe she sells, and makes almost all the pastries herself. It is her passion. The rest of it is mostly an excuse to follow that dream. She is skilled in combat and first aid from the days when she was a super villain and has a tremendous, nearly overriding, work ethic. Outside of her singular parahuman ability she is otherwise normal, if a bit on the tall side. No super strength, no super durability, no super brainpower. But she is determined, resourceful, and creative enough to turn her singular power into a finals placement in the Cross Tournament.

Location

She is almost always at her business, the Shatter Sugar Connection Cafe on the Phoenix Coast. You can find her there from before the sun rises, all the way til the sun sets. It's rumored she even sleeps there. Every now and then, her handful of employees shove her out the door to take a break, but often she uses this as an opportunity to meet with her suppliers instead. Very rarely, if she does take a break, she will go down to the Fox Den and- Nope, not even then. Her 'break' is often just an excuse to advertise her cafe.

Gallery

[item description]

[item description]

[item description]

Author's Notes

Feel free to shoot me a DM if you have further character questions. She is probably not looking for a relationship, work is her life after all, but if you wanna ship her, go ahead and ship her. More power to you.

Revision #6

Created 3 March 2024 17:58:13 by MsConductor

Updated 1 August 2024 13:08:06 by MsConductor